The Langhorne Creek Writers Festival celebrated another successful Young People’s Writing competition this year. Students from 16 schools across South Australia took the opportunity to take part. 32 teachers accessed the competition and entered students from their school. This year there were two categories including Haiku and Celebrations with 5 age groups for each category. Eastern Fleurieu School students were very successful in the competition, with 5 winners across 3 sites and a high number of highly commended and commended entries. All shortlisted students took part in a special literacy celebration day at Langhorne Creek Campus late in term 3. Attendees participated in literacy workshops with talented local authors and illustrators. The competition is gaining momentum and it is anticipated it will run again in 2016.
